

CONTENTS

(A historical outline covering approximately 2 AD—313 AD)

CHAPTER 1

The Extent and Military Force of the Empire in the Age of the Antonines

- ★ Introduction
- ★ Moderation of Augustus
- ★ Conquest of Britain
  - (a) Of Dacia
  - (b) Conquests of Trajan in the East resigned by Hadrian
  - (c) Contrast of Hadrian and Antoninus Pius
- ★ Military establishment of the Roman emperors
  - (a) Discipline
  - (b) Exercises
  - (c) The legions arms
  - (d) Cavalry
  - (e) Auxiliaries
  - (f) Artillery, encampment
  - (g) March, number and disposition of the legions
  - (h) Navy
  - (i) Amount of the whole establishment
- ★ The provinces of Spain, Gaul
  - (a) Britain
  - (b) Italy
  - (c) The Danube and Illyrian frontier, Rhætia and Noricum
  - (d) Pannonia, Dalmatia, Mæsia and Dacia
  - (e) Thrace, Macedonia, and Greece, Asia Minor
  - (f) Syria, Phœnicia and Palestine
  - (g) Egypt, Africa
  - (h) The Mediterranean
  - (i) The Roman Empire

CHAPTER II

Of the Union and Internal Prosperity of the Roman Empire in the Age of the Antonines

- ★ Principles of government
  - (a) Spirit of toleration at Rome
- ★ Freedom of Rome, Italy, the provinces, colonies, and municipal towns, division of the Latin and the Greek provinces
- ★ Use of both the Greek and Latin languages
- ★ Slaves, their treatment, numbers

- ★ Population of the Empire
  - (a) Obedience and union
  - (b) Roman monuments, erected for public use, temples, theatres, aqueducts
  - (c) Number of the cities of the empire, in Italy, Gaul and Spain, Africa, Asia
  - (d) Roman roads, posts, navigation
  - (e) Agriculture in the Empire
  - (f) Introduction of the vine
  - (g) The olive, flax, artificial grass
  - (h) General plenty, arts of luxury
  - (i) Foreign trade, gold and silver
  - (j) Decline of courage, of genius

CHAPTER III

Of the Constitution of the Roman Empire in the Age of the Antonines

- ★ Idea of a monarchy
  - (a) Situation of Augustus; he reforms the senate; his power; under the title of emperor or general
  - (b) The Roman generals
- ★ Division of the provinces between the emperor and the senate
  - (a) Consular and tribunial powers
  - (b) Imperial prerogatives
  - (c) The magistrates; the senate
- ★ The imperial system
  - (a) Court of the emperors; deification
- ★ Titles of Augustus and Caesar
  - (a) Policy of Augustus
  - (b) Image of liberty for the people
  - (c) Attempts of the senate after the death of Caligula
- ★ Image of government for the armies; their obedience
- ★ The race of the Caesars and Flavian family

- ★ AD 96: Adoption and character of Trajan
- ★ AD 117: (Adoption and character) of Hadrian
  - (a) Adoption of the elder and younger Verus
  - (b) Adoption of the two Antonines
- ★ AD 138—180: Reign of Pius and Marcus
  - (a) Happiness of the Romans; its precarious nature
  - (b) Peculiar misery of the Romans under their tyrants
  - (c) Insensibility of the Orientals
  - (d) Knowledge and free spirit of the Romans
  - (e) Extent of their empire left them no place of refuge

CHAPTER IV

The Cruelties, Follies, and Murder of Commodus—Election of Pertinax—His Attempts to Reform the State—His Assassination By the Pretorian Guards

- ★ Indulgence of Marcus to his son Commodus
  - (a) AD 180: Accession of Commodus
    - i. His character
  - (b) AD 183: Is wounded by an assassin
    - i. Hatred of Commodus toward the senate
  - (c) AD 186: Perrenis
    - i. Revolt of Maternus
    - ii. Cleander; his avarice and cruelty
  - (d) AD 189: Sedition and death of Cleander
    - i. Dissolute pleasures of Oommodus
    - ii. His low sports
    - iii. Hunting of wild beasts
    - iv. Exhibits his skill in the amphitheater
    - v. His infamy
    - vi. Conspiracy of his domestics
  - (e) AD 192: Death of Commodus
    - i. Pertinax emperor
    - ii. Acknowledged
    - iii. Legal jurisdiction of the senate over the emperors
- ★ Virtues of Pertinax
  - (a) He endeavors to reform the state
- ★ Murder of Pertinax by the Pretorians

CHAPTER V

Public Sale of the Empire to Didius Julianus By the Pretorian Guards—Clodius Albinus In Britain, Pescennius Niger in Syria, and Septimius Severus in Pannonia, Declare Against the Murderers of Pertinax—Victory of Severus Over his Three Rivals—Relaxation of Discipline—New Maxims of Government

- ★ Proportion of the military force to the number of the people
- ★ The Pretorian guards; their camp, strength and confidence
- ★ They offer the empire for sale

- ★ AD 198: The empire is purchased by Julian
  - (a) Julian acknowledged by the senate
  - (b) Clodius Albinus, Pescennias Niger, Pannonia and Dalmatia, declare against Julian
  - (c) Septimius Severus declared emperor by the Pannonian legions
  - (d) He marches into Italy
  - (e) Distress of Julian, who is executed by order of the senate
  - (f) Disgrace of the Pretorian guards
  - (g) Apotheosis of Pertinax

- ★ AD 193—197: Success of Severus against Niger and Albinus
  - (a) Arts of SeVerus toward Niger and Albinus
  - (b) Siege of Byzantium, death of Niger and Albinus
  - (c) Cruel consequences of the civil wars
  - (d) Animosity of Severus against the senate
  - (e) The wisdom and justice of his government
  - (f) Relaxation of military discipline
  - (g) The office of Pretorian prefect
  - (h) The senate oppressed by military despotism
  - (i) The Imperial prerogative

CHAPTER VI

The Death of Severus—Tyranny of Caracalla—Usurpation of Macrinus—Follies of Elagabalus— Virtues of Alexander Severus—Licentiousness of the Army—General State of the Roman Finances

- ★ Greatness and discontent of Severus
  - (a) The empress Julia
  - (b) Their sons, Caracalla and Geta

- ★ AD 208: the Caledonian war
  - (a) Fingal and his heroes
  - (b) Contrast of the Caledonians and the Romans
  - (c) Ambition of Caracalla
- ★ AD 211: Death of Severus
  - (a) Accession of his sons
  - (b) Their jealousy and hatred
- ★ AD 212: Murder of Geta
  - (a) Remorse and cruelty of Caracalla
- ★ AD 211: Death of Papinian
- ★ AD 213: Tyranny extended over the empire
  - (a) Relaxation of discipline
- ★ AD 217: Murder of Caracalla
  - (a) Election of Macrinus
  - (b) Discontent of the senate and army
  - (c) Macrinus attempts a reformation of the army
  - (d) Death of the empress Julia
  - (e) Pretensions of Elagabalus
- ★ AD 218: Defeat and death of Macrinus
- ★ AD 219: Picture of Elagabalus
  - (a) His superstition
  - (b) His profligate and effeminate luxury
  - (c) Discontents of the army
- ★ AD 221: Alexander Severus declared Caesar
- ★ AD 222: Sedition of the guards and murder of Elagabalus
  - (a) Accession of Alexander Severus

- (b) Power of his mother Mamaea
- (c) His wise administration; virtuous temper
- (d) Journal of his ordinary life
- ★ AD 222—225: Happiness of the Roman world
  - (a) Alexander attempts to reform the army
  - (b) Seditions; murder of Ulpian
  - (c) Danger of Dion Cassius
  - (d) Tumults of the legions
  - (e) Firmness of the emperor
  - (f) Defects of his reign
- ★ Digression on the finances of the empire; the tribute on Roman citizens; abolition of the tribute
  - (a) Tributes of the provinces of Asia, Egypt, Gaul, Africa, Spain, and the Isle of Gyarus
  - (b) Amount of the revenue
  - (c) Taxes on Roman citizens instituted by Augustus:
  - (d) The customs
  - (e) The excise
  - (f) Tax on legacies and inheritances
- ★ Regulations of the emperors; edict of Caracalla
- ★ The freedom of the city given to all the provincials, for the purpose of taxation

CHAPTER VII

The Elevation and Tyranny of Maxim—Rebellion In Africa and Italy, Under the Authority of the Senate—Deaths of Maxim and His Son, of Maximus and Balbinus, and of the Three Gordians—Usurpation and Secular Games of Philip

- ★ The advantages of hereditary succession
  - (a) Want of it in the Roman empire
- ★ Fortunes of Maximin
  - (a) His military service
- ★ AD 235: Murder of Alexander Severus
  - (a) Tyranny of Maximin; oppression of the provinces
- ★ AD 237: Revolt in Africa
  - (a) Elevation of the two Gordians; which the senate ratifies
  - (b) Maximin assumes the command of Rome and Italy; prepares for a civil war
- ★ AD 237: Defeat and death of the two Gordians
  - (a) Election of Maximus and Balbinus by the senate
  - (b) Tumult at Rome; the younger Gordian is declared Caesar
- ★ AD 238: Maximin marches into Italy
  - (a) Siege of Aquileia
  - (b) Conduct of Maximus
  - (c) Murder of Maximin and his son; his portrait
  - (d) Sedition at Rome
  - (e) Discontent of the Pretorian guards
  - (f) Massacre of Maximus and Balbinus
  - (g) The third Gordian remains sole emperor
  - (h) Innocence and virtues of Gordian

- ★ AD 240: Administration of Misitheus
- ★ AD 242: The Persian war
  - (a) The arts of Philip
- ★ AD 244: The murder of Gordian
  - (a) Form of a military republic; reign of Philip
- ★ AD 248: Secular games
  - (a) Decline of the Roman Empire

CHAPTER VIII

Of the State of Persia After the Restoration of the Monarchy By Artaxerxes

- ★ The barbarians of the east and of the north
  - (a) Revolutions of Asia
  - (b) The Persian monarchy restored by Artaxerxes
- ★ Reformation of the Magian religion
  - (a) Persian theology, two principles
- ★ Ceremonies and moral precepts
  - (a) Encouragement of agriculture
  - (b) Power of the Magi
  - (c) Spirit of persecution
- ★ Establishment of the royal authority in the provinces
  - (a) Extent and population of Persia
- ★ Wars between the Parthian and Roman empires
  - (a) Cities of Seleucia and Ctesiphon
  - (b) Conquest of Osrhoene by the Romans
- ★ AD 230: Artaxerxes claims the provinces of Asia, and declares war against the Romans
- ★ AD 240: Artaxerxes
  - (a) Power of the Persians

CHAPTER IX

The State of Germany Till the Invasion of the Barbarians, In the Time of the Emperor Decius

- ★ Extent of Germany
  - (a) Climate
  - (b) Origin of the Germans
  - (c) The Germans ignorant of letters
  - (d) Of arts and agriculture
  - (e) Of the use of metals
  - (f) Their indolence their taste for strong liquors
  - (g) Population
  - (h) Freedom
  - (i) Assemblies of the people
  - (j) Authority of the princes and magistrates
  - (k) Voluntary engagements
  - (l) Religion; its effects in peace; in war

- (m) The Bards
- (n) Causes which checked the progress of the Germans
- (o) Dissensions
- (p) Fomented by Rome
- (q) Union against Marcus Antoninus
- (r) The German tribes
- (s) Numbers

CHAPTER X

The Emperor Decius, Gallus, Aemilianus, Valerian, and Gallienus—The General Irruption of the Barbarians

- ★ AD 248—268: The emperor Philip
- ★ AD 249: Services, revolt, victory, and reign of the emperor Decius
  - (a) The Goths from Scandinavia
  - (b) Their religion
  - (c) Institutions and death of Odin
  - (d) Emigration from Scandinavia into Prussia and the Ukraine
  - (e) The nation increases in its march
  - (f) Description of the Ukraine
  - (g) The Goths invade the Roman provinces
  - (h) Various events of the Gothic war
  - (i) Decius revives the office of censor
  - (j) Defeat and death of Decius and his son
- ★ AD 251: Election of Gallus
  - (a) Retreat of the Goths on payment of an annual tribute
- ★ AD 253: Popular discontent
  - (a) Victory and revolt of Aemilianus
  - (b) Gallus abandoned and slain
  - (c) Valerian is acknowledged emperor
  - (d) Character of Valerian
- ★ AD 253—268: Misfortunes of the reigns of Valerian and Gallienus
  - (a) Inroads of the Barbarians
  - (b) Confederacy of the Franks, who invade Gaul, ravage Spain, and pass over into Africa
  - (c) Origin of the Suevi
  - (d) The Alemanni
  - (e) Invade Gaul and Italy
  - (f) Are repulsed from Rome by the senate and people
  - (g) Gallienus contracts an alliance with the Alemanni
  - (h) Inroads of the Cloths
  - (i) Conquest of the Bosphorus by the Goths
  - (j) First naval expedition of the Goths
  - (k) They besiege and take Trebizond
  - (l) Their second expedition
  - (m) They plunder the cities of Bithynia
  - (n) Retreat of the Goths

- (o) Third expedition of the Goths, who pass the Bosphorus and the Hellespont ravage Greece, and threaten Italy
- (p) Ruin of the temple of Ephesus
- (q) Conduct of Goths at Athens
- (r) Conquest of Armenia by the Persians
- (s) Valerian marches into the East
- ★ AD 260: Is taken prisoner by Sapor, king of Persia, who overruns Syria, Cilicia, and Cappadocia
  - (a) Boldness and success of Odenathus against Sapor
  - (b) Treatment of Valerian
  - (c) Administration of Gallienus
  - (d) The thirty tyrants
  - (e) Their birth
  - (f) The rebellion
  - (g) Their deaths
  - (h) Fatal consequences of these usurpations
  - (i) Disorders of Sicily
  - (j) Tumults of Alexandria
  - (k) Rebellion of the Isaurians
  - (l) Famine and pestilence
  - (m) Diminution of the human species

CHAPTER XI

Reign of Claudius—Defeat of the Goths—Victories, Triumph and Death of Aurelian

- ★ AD 268: Aureolus invades Italy, is defeated and besieged at Milan
  - (a) Death of Gallienus
  - (b) Death of Aureolus
  - (c) Character of the emperor Claudius
  - (d) He undertakes the reformation of the army
- ★ AD 269: The Goths invade the empire
  - (a) Distress and firmness at Claudius
- ★ AD 270: His victory over the Goths
  - (a) Death of Claudius, who recommends Aurelian for his successor
  - (b) Origin and services of Aurelian
  - (c) His successful reign; severe discipline
  - (d) He concludes a treaty with the Goths
  - (e) He resigns to them the province of Dacia
  - (f) War with the Alemanni, who invade Italy, and are vanquished by Aurelian
- ★ AD 271: Superstitious ceremonies
  - (a) Fortifications of Rome
  - (b) Aurelian suppresses the two usurpers
  - (c) Succession of usurpers in Gaul
  - (d) The reign and defeat of Tetricus
- ★ AD 272: Character of Zenobia
  - (a) Her beauty, learning, and valor

- (b) Revenges her husband's death, and reigns over the East and Egypt
- (c) Expedition of Aurelian, who defeats the Palmyrenians in the battles of Antioch and Emesa
- ★ AD 273: Palmyra is besieged by Aurelian
  - (a) Aurelian becomes master of Zenobia and of the city
  - (b) Behavior of Zenobia
  - (c) Rebellion and ruin of Palmyra
  - (d) Aurelian suppresses the rebellion of Firmus in Egypt
- ★ AD 274: Triumph of Aurelian
  - (a) Mistreatment of Tetricus and Zenobia
  - (b) His magnificence and devotion
  - (c) He suppresses a sedition at Rome
  - (d) Observations upon it
  - (e) Cruelty of Aurelian
- ★ AD 275: He marches into the East, and is assassinated

CHAPTER XII

Conduct of the Army and Senate After the Death of Aurelian—Reigns of Tacitus, Probus, Carus, and His Sons

- ★ AD 275: Contest between the army and the senate for the choice of an emperor
  - (a) An interregnum of eight months
  - (b) Tacitus is elected emperor
  - (c) Authority of the senate
  - (d) Their joy and confidence
- ★ AD 276: The Alani invade Asia, and are repulsed by Tacitus
  - (a) Death of the emperor Tacitus
  - (b) Character and elevation of the emperor Probus
- ★ AD 277: Victories of Probus over the Barbarians
  - (a) Builds a wall from the Rhine to the Danube
  - (b) Introduction and settlement of the Barbarians
  - (c) Daring enterprise of the Franks
- ★ AD 279: Revolt of Saturninus in the East
- ★ AD 280: Of Bonosus and Proculus in Gaul
- ★ AD 281: Triumph of the emperor Probus
  - (a) His discipline
- ★ AD 282: His death
  - (a) Election of Carus
  - (b) Defeats the Samaritans, and marches into the East
- ★ AD 283: Victories and extraordinary death
  - (a) His sons, Carinus and Numerian
- ★ AD 284: Vices of Carinas
  - (a) He celebrates the Roman games
  - (b) The amphitheater
  - (c) Death of Numerian
  - (d) Election of Diocletian
  - (e) Death of Carinus

CHAPTER XIII

The Reign of Diocletian and His Three Associates, Maximian, Galerius, and Constantius— General Reestablishment of Order and Tranquility—The Persian War, Victory and Triumph— The New Form of Administration—Abdication and Retirement of Diocletian and Maximian

- ★ AD 285: Character of Diocletian
- ★ AD 286: Character of Maximian
- ★ AD 292: Character of the two Caesars, Galerius and Constantius
  - (a) Harmony of the four princes
  - (b) Series of events
  - (c) State of the peasants of Gaul
  - (d) Their rebellion and chastisement
- ★ AD 287: Revolt of Carausius in Britain
  - (a) Importance of Britain
  - (b) Power of Carausius
- ★ AD 289: Acknowledged by the other emperors
- ★ AD 294: His death
- ★ AD 296: Recovery of Britain by Constantius
  - (a) Defense of the frontiers
  - (b) Fortifications
  - (c) Dissensions of the barbarians
  - (d) Conduct of the emperors
  - (e) Valor of the Caesars
  - (f) Wars of Africa and Egypt
- ★ AD 296: Conduct of Diocletian in Egypt
  - (a) He suppresses books of alchemy
  - (b) Progress of that art
  - (c) The Persian war
- ★ AD 282: Tiridates the Armenian
- ★ AD 26: State of the country
  - (a) Story of Mamgo
  - (b) The Persians recover Armenia
  - (c) War between the Persians and the Romans
  - (d) Defeat of Galerius
- ★ AD 297: Second campaign of Galerius
  - (a) His victory
  - (b) Negotiation for peace; moderation of Diocletian
  - (c) Articles of the treaty
  - (d) The Aboras fixed as the limits between the empires
- ★ AD 303: Triumph of Diocletian and Maximian
  - (a) Long absence of the emperors from Rome
  - (b) Their residence at Milan
  - (c) At Nicomedia
  - (d) Debasement of Rome and of the senate
  - (e) New bodies of guards, Jovians and Herculians

- (f) Civil magistrates laid aside
- (g) Imperial dignity and titles
- (h) Diocletian assumes the diadem and introduces the Persian ceremonial
- (i) Two Augusti, and two Caesars
- (j) Increase of taxes
- ★ AD 305: Abdication of Diocletian and Maximian
  - (a) Long illness of Diocletian
  - (b) His prudence
  - (c) Compliance of Maximian
  - (d) Retirement of Diocletian at Salona
  - (e) His philosophy
- ★ AD 318: His death
  - (a) Description of Salona
  - (b) Description of Diocletian's palace
  - (c) Decline of the arts and of letters; the new Platonists

CHAPTER XIV

Troubles After the Abdication of Diocletian—Death of Constantius—Elevation of Constantine and Maxentius—Six Emperors At the Same Time—Death of Maximian and Galerius—Victories of Constantine Over Maxentius and Licinius—Reunion of the Empire Under the Authority of Constantine

- ★ AD 305—323: Period of civil war and confusion
  - (a) Character and situation of Constantius and Galorius
  - (b) The two Caesars, Maximian and Severus
  - (c) Ambition of Galerius disappointed
  - (d) Education and escape of Constantine
- ★ AD 306: Death of Constantius and elevation of Constantine
  - (a) The brothers and sisters of Constantine
  - (b) Discontent of the Romans
  - (c) Maxentius declared emperor at Rome
  - (d) Maximian reassumes the purple
- ★ AD 307: Defeat and death of Severus
  - (a) Maximian gives his daughter Fausta to Constantine
  - (b) Galerius invades Italy
  - (c) His retreat
  - (d) Elevation of Licinius
  - (e) Elevation of Maximian
- ★ AD 308: Six emperors
  - (a) Misfortunes of Maximian
- ★ AD 310: His death
- ★ AD 311: Death of Galerius
- ★ AD 306—312: Administration of Constantine in Gaul
  - (a) Tyranny of Maxentius in Italy and Africa
- ★ AD 312: Civil war between Constantine and Maxentius
  - (a) Battle of Turin

- (b) Siege and battle of Verona
- (c) Fears of Maxentius
- (d) Victory of Constantine near Rome
- (e) His conduct at Rome
- ★ AD 313: His alliance with Licinius
  - (a) War between Maximin and Licinius
  - (b) The defeat of Maximin
  - (c) His death
  - (d) Unfortunate fate of the empress Valeria and her mother
  - (e) First civil war between Constantine and Licinius
- ★ AD 314: Battle of Cibalis
  - (a) Battle of Mardia
- ★ AD 315—323: General peace and laws of Constantine
- ★ AD 322: The Gothic war
- ★ AD 323: Second civil war
  - (a) Battle of Hadrianople
  - (b) Siege of Byzantium and naval victory of Crispus
  - (c) Battle of Chrysopolis
  - (d) Submission and death of Licinius
- ★ AD 324: Reunion of the empire

CHAPTER XV

The Progress of the Christian Religion—Sentiments, Manners, Numbers, and Conditions of the Primitive Christians

- ★ Importance of the Inquiry
- ★ The growth of Christianity
  - (a) Zeal of the Jews; its gradual increase
    - i. Their religion
    - ii. More liberal zeal of Christianity
    - iii. Obstinacy of the believing Jews
    - iv. The Nazarene Church of Jerusalem
    - v. The Ebionites
    - vi. The Gnostics; their sects, progress, and influence
    - vii. Abhorrence of the Christians for idolatry, ceremonies, arts, festivals
    - viii. Zeal for Christianity
  - (b) The doctrine of the immortality of the soul among the philosophers
    - i. The Pagans of Greece and Rome, the Barbarians and the Jews, the Christians
    - ii. Doctrine of the Millennium
    - iii. Conflagration of Rome
    - iv. The Pagans often converted by their fears
  - (c) Miraculous Powers claimed by the primitive Church
    - i. Use of the primitive miracles
  - (d) Virtues of the first Christians
    - i. Care of their reputation
    - ii. Principles of human nature

- iii. The primitive Christians condemn pleasure and luxury
- iv. Their aversion to the business of war and government
- (e) The Christians active in the government of the Church
  - i. Its primitive freedom and equality
  - ii. Institution of bishops
  - iii. Provincial councils
  - iv. Union of the Church
  - v. Progress of Episcopal authority
  - vi. Preeminence of the metropolitan Churches
  - vii. Ambition of the Roman pontiff
  - viii. Laity and clergy
  - ix. Oblations and revenue of the Church
  - x. Distribution of the revenue
  - xi. Excommunication
  - xii. The dignity of Episcopal government
  - xiii. Recapitulation of the five causes
  - xiv. Weakness of Polytheism
  - xv. The skepticism of the Pagan
  - xvi. Historical view of the progress of Christianity
  - xvii. In the East; the Church of Antioch
  - xviii. In Egypt
  - xix. In Rome
  - xx. In Africa and the Western provinces
  - xxi. Beyond the limits of the Roman Empire
  - xxii. General proportion of Christians and Pagans
  - xxiii. Christianity rejected by some eminent men of the first and second centuries
  - xxiv. Their neglect of prophecy and miracles

CHAPTER XVI

The Conduct of the Roman Government Toward the Christians, From the Reign of Nero To That of Constantine

- ★ Christianity persecuted by the Roman emperors
  - (a) Their motives
  - (b) Rebellious spirit of the Jews
  - (c) Toleration of the Jewish religion
  - (d) The Jews were a people which followed, the Christians a sect which deserted the religion of their fathers
  - (e) The union and assemblies of the Christians considered as a dangerous conspiracy
  - (f) Their manners calumniated
  - (g) Conduct of the emperors toward the Christians
  - (h) They neglected the Christians as a sect of Jews
  - (i) The Fire of Rome under the reign of Nero
  - (j) Cruel punishment of the Christians as the incendiaries of the city
  - (k) Remarks on the passage of Tacitus relative to the persecution of the Christians by Nero
  - (l) Oppression of the Jews and Christians by Domitian

- (m) Execution of Clemens the consul
- (n) Ignorance of Pliny concerning the Christians
- (o) Trajan and his successors established a legal mode of proceeding against them
- (p) Popular clamors
- (q) Trials of the Christians
- (r) Humanity of the Roman magistrates
- (s) Example of Cyprian, bishop of Carthage
- (t) His danger and flight
- ★ AD 257: Cyprian's banishment
  - (a) His condemnation
  - (b) His martyrdom
  - (c) Ardor of the first Christians
  - (d) Alternatives of severity and toleration
  - (e) The ten persecutions
  - (f) Supposed edicts of Tiberius and Marcus Antoninus
  - (g) State of the Christians in the reigns of Commodus and Severus
- ★ AD 211—249: Of the successors of Severus
- ★ AD 244: Successors of Maximin, Philip, and Decius
- ★ AD 253—260: Of Valerian, Gallienus, and his successors
- ★ AD 260: Paul of Samosata
  - (a) His manners
- ★ AD 270: He is degraded from the see of Antioch
  - (a) The sentence is executed by Aurelian
- ★ AD 284—303: Peace and prosperity of the Church under Diocletian
  - (a) Progress of zeal and superstition among the Pagans
  - (b) Maximian and Galerius punish a few Christian soldiers
- ★ AD 302: Demolition of the Church of Nicomedia
  - (a) The first edict against the Christians
  - (b) Fire of the palace of Nicomedia imputed to the Christians
  - (c) Demolition of the churches
  - (d) Subsequent edicts
- ★ AD 303—311: General idea of the persecution
  - (a) In the Western provinces, under Constantius and Constantine
  - (b) In Italy and Africa, under Maximian, Severus and Maxentius
  - (c) In Illyricum and the East, under Galerius and Maximin
- ★ AD 311: Peace of the Church
- ★ AD 313: End of the persecutions
  - (a) Sufferings of the martyrs and confessors; their number

Back

Next